THANK YOU for subscribing to my newsletter! I'm so glad you're here! I have a passion for writing passages and sharing them with readers around the world.

I didn't specifically level these passages, but they increase in difficulty and are intended for kindergartners, 1st and 2nd graders.

All you need to do is print and copy. These passages are great to use during guided reading groups, independent reading time, with parent volunteers or to send home for extra practice.

If you are looking for more passages, please check out my TPT store where you'll find a whole lot of leveled passages for Pre A - V (Kindergarten - 5th grade)!

I Didn't Know

While I was at the park, I made a new friend. I saw a girl waving at me as soon as I got to the park. I didn't know her, but she seemed nice.

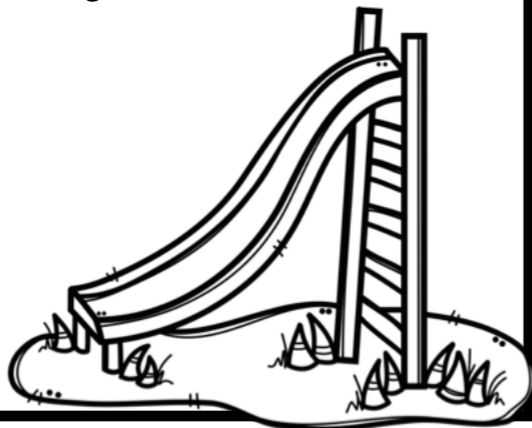

I like playing at the park by myself. It ended up being fun playing with someone else today. We ran all over the park. We swung on the monkey bars. We rushed down the slides. We even took turns on the swings.

The girl and I played together for a long time. Then, I had to go home. I said bye and went home. After I got home I told my dad about the girl. My dad asked me her name.

I spent time thinking about it. I didn't know her name. We had played all day and I never asked. She also didn't know my name. I hoped she would be back another day.

The next day, I went back to the park. I spotted my new friend. I ran up to her. The first thing I asked was her name. I then asked her if she wanted to play. Maya and I then played the rest of the afternoon at the park.

After I got home, I told my dad her name. He was glad I made a new friend. He was also glad I knew her name now!

Name: _____

Write a sentence:

What happened at the park?

Write a sentence:

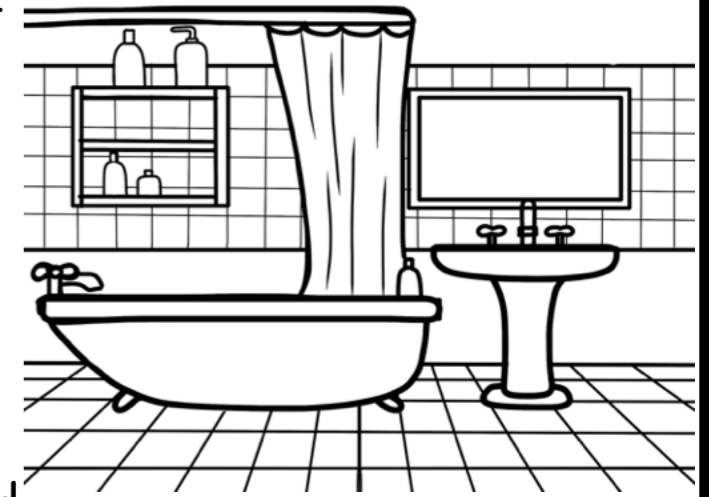

Why did the boy hope to see the girl again?

Draw and label a picture: What did the kids do together at the park?

Helping Out

Name: _____

I wasn't thrilled about it, but I had no choice. My mom and dad told me I needed to help out around the house more. I had a baby brother who took up a lot of their time. Don't get me wrong. I love my baby brother. He's the cutest thing ever. However, I do NOT like working when I could be playing.

That morning, I was playing with my baby brother. While we were playing, my mom asked me to clean the bathroom. I knew she wouldn't let me get out of it. I got up from the rug where I was playing with my brother. He got up too. I told him to stay on the rug. He started crying. I sat back down and played with him. My mom went to clean the bathroom.

That afternoon, I was playing with my brother, again. We were playing in the kitchen. My dad came and asked me to help with the laundry. I started going to the laundry room. My baby brother followed me. I told him he had to stay there. He started crying, again. I looked up at my dad. He told me to stay and play a little while longer. My dad went to do the laundry.

I knew I loved my baby brother. Now I love him even more. He got me out of cleaning the bathroom AND doing the laundry. He's not only the cutest thing ever. He's the best baby ever! My mom and dad couldn't even be mad at me. I was still helping around the house more. I just didn't have to clean at all. I could help them out by playing with my baby brother!

What did the boy and his brother do all day?

Why does the boy love his brother even more now?

Everyone Wins

“You aren’t going to beat us,” Maxwell shouted. He wasn’t worrying about the other team at all. Being teammates with Zoe was going to be great. Frankie and Lucy didn’t stand a chance against them. He peered over at Zoe. She didn’t look very excited. He wondered if she was worried. Maxwell brushed it off. He wasn’t going to let it bother him.

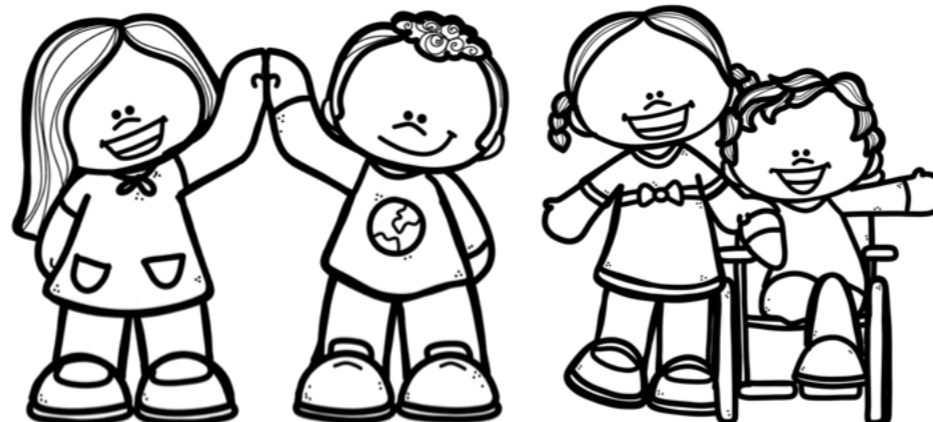

The buzzer went off. It was time for the game to begin. The board game was all set up in front of the two teams. Everyone had a chance to roll the dice. Frankie ended up getting the highest number. His team got to go first. The rest of the class stood around them. They were all cheering on both teams.

In order to win the game, their game piece had to be the first one at the end. Each time they got a question right, they got to move their game piece. The game started off well. Zoe and Maxwell knew every answer. Until they got near the end of the board. Then the questions become more challenging. Maxwell began to feel uneasy. He wasn’t so sure they’d win anymore.

Frankie and Lucy started to get even the challenging questions right. Zoe could see Maxwell becoming upset. She asked to take a quick break. Pulling Maxwell to the side, she told him not to worry. Zoe told Maxwell that she still would be his friend if they lost. Maxwell started to look less worried. Zoe knew that would do the trick.

There was only one space left for Frankie and Lucy. They were about to win the whole game. But then they didn’t know the answer to their question. Zoe and Maxwell got a turn. Zoe knew the answer right away. Their game piece was now right next to Frankie and Lucy’s piece. This game was so close. Their classmates had all gone quiet. Everyone was excited to see who would win.

Maxwell pulled a card and read the question. He knew the answer, shouting it out before checking with Zoe. As soon as he said it out loud, Maxwell knew he had made a mistake. Frankie and Lucy cheered. They got a chance to answer the question. They had the correct answer. Frankie and Lucy were the winners. Maxwell hung his head. Then Zoe grabbed his hand, giving him a high five. Maxwell no longer was upset. He smiled back at Zoe. Guess it didn’t really matter who won anyway!

Name: _____

What happened while playing the board game?

Why is “Everyone Wins” a good title for this story?
